

Data-driven maternal and child health

Japan is playing a key role in strengthening maternal and child health systems through support for comprehensive data collection and analysis. By backing surveys on maternal and child health (MCH) services, Japan helps ensure that policymakers, health workers, and communities have accurate and timely information on maternal, newborn, and child health needs. This data-driven approach enables improved planning, resource allocation, and delivery of quality essential health services, ultimately contributing to better health outcomes for mothers and children. Through this support, Japan demonstrates its commitment to evidence-based interventions that empower health systems to respond effectively, even in challenging contexts.

A partner on demographic resilience

With support from Japan, UNFPA supports critical data systems and demographic analysis that enable countries to respond effectively to population trends, ageing, youth dynamics, and changing fertility patterns. The active engagement of its Permanent Missions to the United Nations, government ministries, and the Japan Parliamentarians Federation for Population (JPFP) highlights Japan's ongoing leadership on global population issues.

© UNFPA Syria/Verity Kowal

UNFPA and Japan

About UNFPA

UNFPA, the United Nations Population Fund, is the sexual and reproductive health agency of the UN. It works to uphold the rights and choices of women, girls and young people across more than 150 countries. UNFPA aims to ensure that every pregnancy is wanted, every childbirth is safe, and every young person can fulfil their potential. It also helps governments plan for changing demographics, to build inclusive and resilient societies.

All UNFPA funding is voluntary – we rely on governments and other partners to support our programmes.

Read more about Japan and UNFPA engagement on UNFPA's website:

A partnership for women and girls

Thanks to Japan's strong partnership with UNFPA, more women and girls around the world are enjoying healthier, more fulfilled lives, free from violence.

See how Japan is making a difference.

© Iraq Health Entrance Organization

© UNFPA Yemen

© UNFPA Mozambique/Mbuto Machili

© UNFPA Sudan

Our partnership

Core contribution to achieve transformative results

As a core donor, Japan empowers UNFPA to achieve transformative results: ending preventable maternal deaths, meeting the unmet need for family planning, and ending gender-based violence and harmful practices. Core funding enables UNFPA to respond swiftly to evolving needs, support gender-based violence expertise in crisis-affected areas, uphold global accountability standards, and ensure access to essential health services, leaving no one behind. Across the globe, Japan and UNFPA are responding effectively to gender-based violence and harmful practices, providing critical support to all women and girls and ensuring survivors have access to a full range of services—medical care, psychosocial support, legal guidance, and referral pathways.

A commitment to women and girls in crisis

Japan provides critical support to protect and empower women and girls in humanitarian emergencies, ensuring access to life-saving sexual and reproductive health services and resources to prevent and respond to gender-based violence.

Results for resources in 2025

800

Maternal deaths averted

346,100

Unintended pregnancies prevented

106,100

Unsafe abortions prevented

850,700

Women and young people reached with integrated sexual and reproductive health services

105,000

Sexually transmitted infections prevented by provision of female and male condoms

1,498,100

Individuals and their partners provided with a full year of contraceptive protection

300

Women and girls living with obstetric fistula received treatment

5,300

Girls saved from female genital mutilation

236,600

Marginalized girls reached by life skills programmes

2,400

HIV infections prevented by providing female and male condoms

Key results are illustrative only and reflect a calculation based on the donor's total contribution proportionally to UNFPA's overall results. While a selection of results are included, the support from our partners enables UNFPA to uphold the rights and choices of women, girls and young people across more than 150 countries, meet immediate needs, pursue promising innovations, bridge funding gaps and seed broader investments.